

ID Summer Challenge 2020

Launch Date
14th July 2020

Diagram

Deadline
21st July 2020
8PM

This second challenge encourages you to practice your analytical thinking and spatial mapping skills communicated through a diagrammatic drawing technique.

Brief:

In Spring 2020 as we were all still isolated at home, Manijeh Verghese, Guest Editor for The London Architecture Diary, invited us to revisit Xavier de Maistre's book 'A Journey Around My Room'. Written in 1790 by a French young officer in confinement, the book describes a 42 day-long journey around his room, in his imagination.

As our cities now open up and we can venture out we ask you to stay in.. and 'dream' for a day! Having journeyed through our homes over the past several weeks, we now have an opportunity to analyse our domestic interiors; how do we define our spaces, and how do they define us?

Using your experience from the past four months, you are asked to record your new routines and habits within your home. Create a spatial diagram of activities performed by you (and others) in your space over a timespan of 24hr.

Be playful in how you translate the notion of space, time and activity. The diagram should tell the story of your day, showing occupation through time and explaining the sequence of activities taking place.

You may want to:

Explore the physical vs virtual, real or imagined, in real time, or conveyed in other time zones, Use both digital and hand drawing techniques, Include a time motion gif.

We are looking for:

Abstract representation
Analytical mapping
Colour + line + shapes to represent the activity
Overlaps to show sequence of activities performed
Graphic composition
Narrative/ words / typography
Time and space / durational sequence

Diagram Examples by:

Sarah Wigglesworth
Diller Scofidio + Renfro
Bernard Tschumi
James Corner
Robert Venturi
Jan Gehl
Daniel Libeskind
Situationists
Edward Tufte
Etienne-Jules Marey
David McCandless
Neil Spiller
Enric Miralles

Technical requirements:

- The file should be A3 size and any orientation (landscape, portrait, square, circle).
- The file should be sent as PDF and JPEG file types.
- File name should be set out as the following:
SURNAME_FIRSTNAME_IMAGE_TITLE_DATE

Please submit this work to

Laoura: EnglezoL@regents.ac.uk and post this material on your professional Instagram profile tagging @regents.interiors

To celebrate the ID Summer Challenge 2020 we will host a celebratory webinar on August 21st 2020 with a virtual exhibition of all ID Summer Challenge entries and the announcement of the winning pieces.